Parrallel Programming Lab Report

We opened nano and wrote the code from 2.1. The integers for the thread id and number where declared globally. After running it and running into the same bug as the document, we edited the code and declared the thread id and number integers within #pragma. This fixed the issue.